CALM AFTER STORM.

Both Armies Are Taking a Much Needed Rest.

Rains Are Still Falling and Fighting is at a Standstill.—The Baltic Squadron Sails for East.

What little news was received yesterday from the Manchurian theatre of war indicates the almost entire suspension of active operations by both Russians and Japanese.

The last dispatch from Mukden said that all was quiet in that region, and the understanding was that the main force of the Japanese had retired to Yentai, on the railroads, about ten miles northeast of Liao Yang.

The Baltic squadron has sailed from Cronstadt for the Far East and the Emperor has called a large number of reserve troops to arms.

Russia, it is said at St. Petersburg, will send 350,000 men to the scene of war.

A report from Gen. Kuroptkin says no hostilities are in progress other than insignificant patrol encounters, in which his forces sustained no casualties.

A report has reached London from St. Petersburg that Viceroy Alexieff has placed his resignation in the hands of the Emperor, but there is no confirmation of it. Advices from Port Arthur indicate that there is continuance of bombardments and outpost fighting.

The Japanese Government places the total casualties on the Japanese side at the battle of Liao Yang at 17,559. The Japanese estimate of the Russian losses is upward of 25,000.

Fierce Downpour at Mukden.

Mukden, Sept. 9.—This evening, around Mukden, has occurred the greatest downpour of rain of the whole campaign and with it a terrifying accompaniment of thunder and lightning. There has been difficulty in preventing the cavalry stampeding by the double guards, and all the horse lines have been tied.

All the lower ground is under water, and Chinese boats from the Hun River are navigating many of the roads and some of the streets. This makes little difference to the men who are under canvas, but all others are soaked to the skin, and are sleeping, exhausted, in mud and water, indifferent to the weather if they can snatch much needed rest.

One advantage is that the rain has entirely checked the movement of the Japanese eastern and southern armies—in fact, quiet reigns over the whole front.

The Chinese population of Mukden is so far, fairly orderly. The Chinese are suffering greatly, and in the mud and water around crops, cattle and poultry have been torn down and killed. The Russians are endeavoring to pay for all damage, though this is often difficult, owing to the rapid shifting of the troops, and the guiltless natives are always ready, where possible, to induce two or more commanders to pay for the same damage.

IN COUNTY COURT.

Minister Authorized to Solemnize Rites of Matrimony.

Rev. George H. Mills, of the Missionary Baptist church, has been granted the right to solemnize the rites of matrimony.

J. D. Capps was appointed guardian for his three children under the age of fourteen years.

Leased Latham Building.

R. C. Hardwick has leased the Latham store house, next door to his drug store, and will move his jewelry stock into his new quarters at once.

They Are Next.

The next wedding in this city will occur on East Seventh street. Now for the first correct guess as to who the contracting parties are.

HORSE SHOW

At Pembroke Will Be a Big Success.

Some Fine Horse Flesh Will Be Entered In Various Rings.

The gentlemen in charge of the details of the Christian County Horse Show, says the Pembroke Journal, to be held in this city Friday and Saturday, Sept. 23 and 24, are leaving no stone unturned to insure the success of the event, and from present indications their efforts will be liberally rewarded.

The premium list offers more and larger cash premiums than were ever before offered by a similar attraction. No entry fee will be charged in any ring and but 10 per cent of any cash premium will be deducted by the Fair Association, which is 15 to 25 per cent less than other fairs deduct.

The best saddle and harness horses in Southern Kentucky, which means the best in the world, will be on hand to compete for the prize money. Every ring will be well filled, and not a moment's time at fair ground will fail to entertain the visitor. The best brass bands to be had will be engaged to furnish music for the occasion. Delightful band concerts will help to while away the time at night.

No gambling or immoral or improper conduct will be permitted upon the grounds.

CLOSE CALL.

Mr. Morris Attacked and Injured By Infuriated Animal.

Mr. R. A. Morris, of this city, was attacked by a bull, a neighbor to Mr. W. L. Gore, of near this place, last Friday, and badly injured. He was in a field near a herd of cattle when attacked, and although he fought the bull with a large stick which he broke into splinters, the infuriated animal knocked him down. Mr. Morris' right leg was hurt and he also sustained some bad bruises on the body. He had a very close call and his escape from death was almost miraculous.

POLITICIANS LOST

And Spend a Night On The Ohio Adrift In a Skiff.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 10.—Commissioner of Agriculture Herbert Freeland and C. M. Hanna, of Shelby county, arrived here today, after an exciting experience. They took a skiff at Smithland last night to go to Paducah and got caught in a fog and spent nearly all night on the river, reaching Paducah at 3 a.m., just in time to catch the train for Louisville.

TWO DEATHS FRIDAY.

One Victim Had Dropsy and Other Stomach Trouble.

Nelson Griffith, col., died at his home First street Friday of dropsy, aged 64 years. George Watkins, col., died the same day on Durrett's avenue, aged 61 years. Stomach trouble was the cause of death of the latter.

SENT TO ASYLUM.

Bad Health Causes Colored Woman's Insanity.

Emma Lewis, col., of this city, was adjudged of unsound mind by a jury last week and ordered sent to the asylum. She had been in bad health for several months and insanity resulted.

Married in Clarksville.

Wm Coombs and Mrs. Emma Malone, of this county, were married in Clarksville last Thursday.

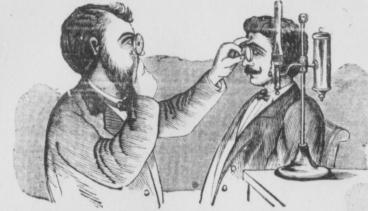

New Fall Goods

T. M. JONES.
Main St., Hopkinsville, Ky.

The very latest and most wonderful of modern optical instruments now installed in the optical department of M. D. KELLY, Graduate Scientific Optometrist.

PRELIMINARY HEARING

Waived and Defendant Held to Grand Jury.

When the case of the Commonwealth against D. E. Ramsey, who shot and killed George Lawrence near Masonville, was called Friday, the defendant waived preliminary hearing and was held over to the grand jury under bond of $250.

Last Survivor.

Col. Gano Henry, of Los Angeles, Cal., who visited his relatives here last week for the first time in 18 years was the last survivor of the jury that tried Alonzo Pennington in 1846.

Pennington was the only white man ever legally executed in Christian county. Col. Henry, who is now nearly 85 years old, was at that time a young man of 26 and was the youngest man on the jury.

MARRIED IN MADISONVILLE.

Mr. Lawrence O'Neal, of near Pembroke, and Miss Lucy B. Hambaugh, of New Providence, Tenn., were married in Madisonville one day last week.

KENTUCKIAN INJURED.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 10.—The Grand Trunk train struck an omnibus containing seven men. Five were injured, including L. D. Green, of Hopkinsville, Ky. He will recover.

HOPKINSVILLE GIRLS

Who Will Attend Eastern Schools This Fall.

Eight Hopkinsville young ladies left for the East yesterday, to attend school. The party was conducted by Mr. W. A. Wilgus, over the C. & O. Railroad. Misses Neil Donaldson, Mary Jessie Brownell, Alice Dabney and Mary Jones, of this city, and Misses Ethel Williams and Maggie Willis, of Pembroke, all go to Boston to study at the New England Conservatory. Miss Maggie Ellis, of this city, and Miss Carrie Atkinson, of Earlington, will enter Randolph-Macon College at Lynchburg, Va. About October 1st, three more of Hopkinsville's prettiest girls will go to Washington. Miss Bet Ware will re-enter Washington College, and Misses Jeanie Graham and Sallie George Blahey will enter another school there.

JUDGE KNIGHT

Has Qualified and Entered Upon His Duties.

Judge J. Walter Knight received his commission Saturday as city judge of Hopkinsville until Jan. 1, 1906 and at once took the oath of office and entered upon the duties of his office. There was an unexpected delay of several days in the arrival of the commission.

To the public.

About two years ago a new grocery store opened up in the Odd Fellow's building, under the name of M. E. Edmundson, with the choicest groceries, fruits and vegetables. We have been able to give liberal patronage to our favorite store, as both ends meet. To them we return our sincere thanks and promise to do our very best in the future to retain their confidence.

The permanent success of any business depends upon the confidence and good opinion of the public. No business can succeed that makes dissatisfied customers. We work and plan to have all goods that we sell give absolute satisfaction to those who purchase.

Now, I had a word to those who voluntarily promised us at least a share of their patronage. While we have been somewhat disappointed in not having the pleasure of adding your names to the list, they can win by united effort, and a proper conception of the duties of a citizen.

Every citizen has an obligation to his country and to the particular locality in which he resides. To be a worthy citizen he must contribute something to the general welfare, he must be patriotic and loyal.

In this he is at all times furthering his own prosperity, for if every man does this, it redounds to the general good. Patriotism to country and loyalty to consistent purpose are synonymous with success.

A meeting of every intelligent tobacco planter has been called by the president of the association, Mr. Chas. H. Fort, to be held at Guthrie, Sept. 24. The object of the meeting is to arrive at some practical, legitimate plan of concerted action by which to thwart the methods of the trust in underlying.

What is the duty of every planter? To begin with, I might say that I have not yet seen or heard of a planter who does not say that an evil exists. That we have a common enemy is beyond controversy.

In this view of the matter it is to the interest of every planter, large or small, of high or low degree, to correct it. It is not the duty, nor is it a possibility, for one man, or a few men to correct it. It is the plain duty of every man, and all men, to contribute to its correction according to his circumstances and his capacity. It is neither fair nor manly for one to wait for another to do something for him. Whether pessimists or optimists, every man should attend this meeting at Guthrie with an earnest desire to do good for his country, his neighbor and himself.

The drones and fossils are more to be feared, men who will agree to anything, and do nothing. Such men are not entitled to a position of esteem in their respective localities. There are men who say that it is impossible for farmers to organize, and then possibly they are the men who are preventing such organization.

A proper conception of duty would be for this man to endeavor to educate and persuade his pessimistic neighbor that the good of the locality demands concerted action, and that no man can afford to be a laggard at a time like this. Inaction is the part of weakness, not of a man, for every man realizes that something must be done.

The meeting at Guthrie is for open discussion of the most important question that confronts planters today. A committee was appointed some months ago to mature some plan of operating. This committee has a plan for discussion, consideration, and if thought wise, acceptance; but by attendance no man is understood to subscribe to it. If he approves he can make it known.

We meet to agree on the best plan submitted. Intelligent speakers will attend to explain the plan proposed. It becomes a question, "Will planters free themselves from oppression by intelligent concert, or will they, from narrow pessimism and inaction, continue to wear the yoke of bondage?"

The darkest hour is just before dawn. Let us hope that tobacco planters have passed their darkest hour.

TOBACCO MEN ORGANIZE.

An Appeal From "Cactus" to The Planters of the Home District.

The planters of the dark tobacco district have been patient and long-suffering, but they have now an air of contentment. They have become restless, they are wrestling with a serious proposition, which is staring at them. They know full well what this proposition is, it is the prices they are being paid for tobacco, their chief source of revenue.

They can be seen conversing with each other and scanning the newspapers for developments. They are on the eve of a great battle, the greatest in the history of the planting of tobacco, but they can win by united effort, and a proper conception of the duties of a citizen.

Every citizen has an obligation to his country and to the particular locality in which he resides. To be a worthy citizen he must contribute something to the general welfare, he must be patriotic and loyal.

UNUSUALLY WARM

For Season Will Be September Weather, Says Marsh.

Marsh, the Winston Place, Ohio, predicts sum up the weather for September as follows:

The weather for the month of September will be unusually warm for the season of the year in all sections of the country. From the 3rd until the 22nd there will be good rains at times, heavy winds, occasional thunder storms and hail and high winds. After the 22nd of September the month a sudden fall in temperature with cooler winds and heavy frost following the rains covering the greater portion of the country will prevail.

The equinoctial storms occurring between the 23rd and 26th will be severe and damaging; high wind and heavy rainfall prevailing, covering the greater portion of the country, causing washouts, high streams and dangerous sudden rises in the rivers.

The storms will be most severe and the rains heaviest over the Southern and Gulf states. Eastern and New England states and along the Atlantic coast and ocean, great lakes, Gulf of Mexico and Texas coast. These storms will be followed by cool waves. Killing frosts will prevail over the Northern States, west, northwest, northern New York, the lake region and sections of the southwest after the 25th, and heavy frost over the Ohio Valley, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia and portions of Tennessee, Illinois, Pennsylvania and sections of North Atlantic Coast States.

The fall will be a heavy one. The month of October will be an unusually cold and dreary month, with cold rains and bleak winds and early frosty days.

Cancer Cured By Blood Balm—All Skin and Blood Diseases Cured.

Mr. M. Adams, Fredonia, New York, has been cured of an eating cancer of the nose and face, which effectively cured an eating cancer of the nose and face. The sores healed up perfectly. Many doctors had given up her case as hopeless. Hundreds of cases of cancer, eating sores, suppurating sores, etc., have been cured by Blood Balm. Among others, Miss M. G. Guerrier, Waverly Stand, Ala. Her nose and lips were raw as beef, with offensive discharge from eating sores. Doctors advised cutting, but it failed. Blood Balm healed the sores. Dr. G. Garfield, 699½ North Summer Street, Nashville, Tenn., also cures eczema, itching humors, scabs and scales, bone pains, ulcers, offensive pimples, blood poison, carbuncles, scrofula, risings and tumors on the skin and all blood troubles. Druggists, $1 per large bottle. Sample of Botanic Blood Balm free and prepaid by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Describe trouble and special medical advice will be sent in sealed envelope. It is certain that a mile investigation is such a remarkable remedy as the Blood Balm, the most awful, worst and most deep seated blood diseases, etc.

A Chance for Parker.

More than a year ago, in these pages, I predicted the nomination of Judge Parker—and his defeat at the polls. I now withdraw the latter half of that prediction. The race should be hot and close. Before have I known my friends and acquaintances to be so uncertain, not apathetic—as to whom they ought to support for President. There appears to me to be a strong disposition to approve Roosevelt's vigorous honesty, offset by a reaction of the public mind in favor of the judicial rather than the militant attitude. There is time enough, between now and election day, to start a landslide toward either of the two men. The lawless element in Wall street and our loveable but hot-headed Southern Democratic friends—the gentlemen who find themselves cramped within the limits of the federal constitution—will work to beat Roosevelt as they have not worked for anything else in years: their heart is in the task. It is possible the members of these two groups constitute or control a majority of the voters of the country: I doubt it.—Frank Putnam in National Magazine for September.

HE WAS GLAD OF ANY SORT

White Mountain Philosopher Who Was Not Particular as to Weather, Says Marsh.

My summer vacation was planned to take in the ascent of a high peak in the White mountains with a city friend, a gentleman who had not had the advantage of mountain climbing, writes "The Samson," in the Boston Budget. We planned to make part of the ascent the day before, resting at an old farmhouse part way up the mountain, relieving us of two or three miles of climbing the following day. The furniture of the farmhouse was primitive, the fare somewhat simple, consisting of ham and eggs and a cup of chickory, with some cream-of-tartar biscuit.

As we retired for the night we hoped for a pleasant day in the morning, as our view depended upon the absence of clouds.

Our host was a philosopher, of unshaven face and quaint appearance, and spent much of his time on the door stoop, which consisted of an immense flat stone, upon which he rested his feet while he smoked the pipe of peace.

As we retired for the night we hoped for a pleasant day in the morning, as our view depended upon the absence of clouds.

Our host was a philosopher, of unshaven face and quaint appearance, and spent much of his time on the door stoop, which consisted of an immense flat stone, upon which he rested his feet while he smoked the pipe of peace.

Our slumber ended early in the morning, and after dressing we immediately attempted to predict the weather. Chafing at the prevalence of heavy fog and clouds running so low as to prevent any view should we climb the mountain, we impatiently found fault with the weather, and gave vent to some kind remarks about the pervading dampness and fog.

Thereupon the old philosopher approached me, and laying his mammoth hand upon my shoulder, remarked, "Young man, it is foolish for you to find fault with the weather. You ought to be more grateful for the blessings you have. As for myself, when I awoke in the morning I thank God that there is any weather at all."

BODY A POISON FACTORY.

When the Stomach Is Crippled the Whole System Becomes Paralyzed.

The body is a factory of poisons. If these poisons, which are constantly being produced in large quantities in the body, are imperfectly removed or are produced in too great quantity as the result of overfeeding, the fluids which surround the brain cells and all the living tissues are contaminated with poisonous substances which asphyxiate and paralyze the cells, and so interfere with their activity. This fact explains, in part at least, the stupidity which is a common after-dinner experience with many persons, says London Family Doctor.

When food is retained in the stomach beyond the normal time, either because of its indigestibility, the taking of too large a quantity of it, or a crippled state of the stomach, these changes are certain to take place. This fact explains a very large share of the myriad symptoms which afflict the chronic dyspeptic. The giddiness, the tingling sensations, the confusion of thought, and even partial insensibility, which are not infrequently observed a few hours after meals in chronic dyspeptics, are due to this cause. Here is the explanation of the inaptitude, the despondency, the pessimism, the indecision, and various other forms of mental perversity and even moral depravity, which are not infrequently associated with certain forms of gastro-intestinal disturbances.

Child Marriages Increasing.

The custom of marrying girls when they are mere children of nine or ten years is increasing rather than decreasing in Bengal and other parts of India. The resulting racial degeneration is becoming so obvious that laws have been passed in several regions for the inhibition of the marriage of girls under 14.—N. Y. Post.

CAME BACK TO HIS OWN.

Reflections of a Busy City Man Who Found Himself in Quietest Part of Maine.

The man who lives in a great city becomes accustomed to its noises. Then some day the man goes out of town, to the mountains or to the quietude of rural life, says the New York Sun.

"That's what I did," said a man whose place of business is in old John street. "I was in the quietest part of Maine. For two weeks I had to fight for sleep."

"The quietness, the awful stillness of the night, actually kept me awake until at last I had to resort to opiate. I had heard of this sort of thing before, but I had never experienced it. When I returned to the city I was like a boy coming home."

I shoved up the window. The old familiar cry of 'hey-up' from the teamsters sounded comforting. Then the clang of the trolley car goes broke in upon me, and I felt good.

"I heard the battle of teamsters just below—but that old fight for space and place that goes on the year round in the city. I longed to see them go at one another in bulldog style."

"Not a sound that I had heard for a year had changed. The noise was no greater, no less. I think if any man had dropped out I should have noticed it. This had a sort of consolation in it. 'They are all here,' I murmured to myself."

"Then I looked out toward the crush at the crossing of Nassau street. I saw the pugnacious man fighting to hold his own. He looked so natural."

"At the opposite corner I saw a pedler whom I have seen there for years. I have bought my shoe-laces and trinkets from him for so long that I should feel lonely if he was gone."

"And when I started for home that first day on my return the same old policeman helped me across, just as he had done these many years. I spoke to him and thanked him more sincerely than I had ever done before."

"He didn't know I had been away. He hadn't missed me, but I missed him."

"When I went to bed that night I threw open my window and fell asleep to the noise and rattle of the elevated trains. I had returned to my own."

HAD FAITH IN NORTH STAR

Uncle Caesar Didn't Believe in Praying Until That Began to Sizze.

In a recent speech before the Hampton Institute graduating class Gov. Montague, of Virginia, told a characteristic story to illustrate his belief in the ultimate triumph of civilization and the establishment of the highest ideals of justice between man and man as a corollary.

In the year "when the stars fell" the slaves of one of the governor's kinsmen were terribly wrought over the celestial pyrotechnics.

Some of the younger negroes banded themselves together to search out the oldest negro upon the plantation to find out how he viewed the situation.

Finally they located him, sitting under a large pine tree, unconsciously contemplating certain sticks which had been arranged in circles and semicircles.

"Uncle Caesar," cried the young negroes in consternation, "don't you see stars a-fallin'? Why don't you git down an' pray? Ain't the world comin' to de e'en?"

"Huh!" grunted the old man in disdain; "I dun barin' watchin' dat north star up dar for de las' two hours. When dat begins to splitter an' sizzle, den Ise gwine to git down an' pray!"

Dorkings.

This English bird is one which may be considered an ideal bird for general purposes. It is a hardy fowl and can stand almost any amount of cold weather, providing the ground is not damp.

This is proved by the fact that they do well in the northern part of Scotland and in the extreme north of Ireland, among the Cumberland Hills, and in other places equally as cold and exposed. This should be remembered by those who contemplate raising them, that the soil must not be damp if success is expected with them.

The Dorking is one of the oldest of domestic fowls, if not the oldest.

There are no definite records to show when it first lived in England, or whence it came, but the supposition is that it was carried to England by the Romans, who evidently possessed fowls of similar characteristics.

The chief distinctive mark of the breed is the presence of a fifth or supernumerary toe, springing behind, a little above the foot and below the spur.—American Poultry Advocate.

THE MUSIC OF MONEY

BY NEWT NEWKIRK.

(Copyright, 1900, by The Shorty Publishing Company. All rights reserved.)

Baptiste-Lafcroy was weasened, withered, little and old when he came alone from France to New Orleans. He died there, but that was in 1801, so his story has been lost to the world in the years that have passed. Baptiste Lafcroy had a god—Baptiste Lafcroy loved but one kind of music—his god was money and his music was the chink of the shining metal.

Often, as he walked, Baptiste thrust his hands into his pockets and heard his trembling fingers among a few coins that he always carried, so that they would clink together. Then his eyes would dilate, his step would quicken and over his scared face would creep a smile, but it was a smile that chilled—the smile of a miser. He never did this within the hearing of anyone but himself. Baptiste was selfish of his music, and besides he feigned to be poor—so poor that the covering was worn off the buttons on his coat and the cloth upon his elbows thin and polished with long service—so poor that he scarcely bought food sufficient to sustain him, and therefore he sometimes went hungry. He was often called a beggar and was often pleased, for if the world believed him poor the world would not rob him. Poor Baptiste!

He brought with him from over the sea two chests which were bound in iron, and stout. They were small, but they were heavy. In the old French Quarter of New Orleans the miser bought a house. The reason he bought it was because the house was put up at sale to satisfy a creditor and went for a song. The building was not large—certainly not beautiful—but it was strong, the walls were thick and that sufficed. Into this house the miser moved the two chests and within it he lived, its sole tenant. When the nights were dark he would close the shutters, bolt the door, and, by the light of a sputtering candle, unlock the chests and sift through his trembling fingers the gold and silver coins that filled them, until his heart would pound in unwonted rhythm to their music. Baptiste would then unlock the chests, push them under his bed, tie the keys about his neck, blow out the candle and creep to bed, where the blunted echoes of gold and silver would lull him to sleep. When there was a moon, enough light filtered through the windows to make the candle an expensive luxury. Moonlight cost him nothing.

Baptiste began to look about him for some means whereby he might add to his store of wealth; the more money, the merrier music. There were profits to be made in the traffic of slaves. He investigated and learned that men about him had become rich in that business; they had made money that might as well have been his. But the buying and selling of slaves had a risk that terrified him: These blacks were ill-treated and ill-fed; many of them were old and one or more might die on his hands. The loss of their lives was nothing but—the loss of profits! He wished he could have bought and sold their souls, for he had heard somewhere that souls never die.

The conditions, however, were before him and he must risk it if he would win. He bought with the marvelous eye of a miser, in a small way at first, but, as he learned the tricks of the trade, more extensively. Baptiste was a modest middleman. He knew where to put his hands on such slaves as his patrons wanted. He dealt in fathers, mothers and daughters as if they had been so many sheep or cattle. He bought low; he sold high, and prospered, but in such a quiet way that few seemed to know who he was or where he lived.

Baptiste, in his best years, had never accumulated money so rapidly. He saved it, all but the trifles on which he lived, and in time filled a third chest. The music grew the sweeter and the more mellow as his hoard increased and as his creeping age enfeebled him. The time came when it required all his strength to drag the smallest chest from under the bed so that he might sift the coins and hear them ring. The exertion spent his strength and he often wished it were possible to sit idly by and yet hear the clinking of the coins. As he pondered over the idea of the money making its own music a plan unfolded itself and Baptiste resolved to adopt it straightforward, even if it should cost something.

The next day and for many days thereafter, workmen were busy in the miser's home. Baptiste followed them about and directed. When they had finished, the result of their labors stood in the center of the room where he ate and slept. It was massively built, stone upon stone, from the ground beneath the floor to the height of nine feet. Its other dimensions were three feet each way, making its horizontal section square. Its walls were six inches thick, leaving an interval of two or one-half feet square in which a man might stand erect and turn about. The inside was metal-lined. There was a solitary barred window, a few inches square, in one wall of the structure, within arm's reach from the inside, that admitted a shaft of light. There was also a heavy, swinging panel door that looked with a great key through which a man might squeeze within the walls. Above and with its apex hanging downward on the inside, was a metal hopper as large as the top of the structure. The slots in the apex of this structure was the thickness and width of a current gold or silver coin. Baptiste's triumph might have passed for a huge stone chimney, but it was a money music box, and, at the same time, a vault.

The miser had only to carry his coin in small loads up the ladder against the outside, empty them into the hopper, release the mechanism at the slot, which would drop the pieces at whatever place desired, and listen in idle ecstasy to their music as they dripped within the vault, rolling and ringing in sweetest symphony. There was something almost pathetic in the childish way poor old Baptiste would unlock the vault door at night, carry a few gold and silver burdens aloft to the hopper, release the slide at the slot and then sit crouched outside the walls, listening to the music's music.

The miser had been blessed with a most profitable week in his slave traffic. He counted his earnings with excited fingers on Sabbath morning and promised himself a concert, the like of which he had never heard, on that very day. Going up and down the ladder was toilsome work for a feeble old man like Baptiste, but the promised music seemed to lend unusual strength to his tottering legs and palsied hands. How many times he crept aloft burdened with coin he knew not, but at last his wealth lay gleaming in the hopper and the vault was empty.

Then Baptiste set the slot at a measured pace, went down the ladder for the last time and, sliding through the open panel door, pulled it slowly to and locked it on the inside. He even removed the key and placed it on the ledge of the single window which lighted the interior, as if it were safer there. The miser's grand concert was under way. The coins fell at his feet and rolled about with ringing accents. Baptiste crouched in the corner and closed his eyes, so that vision might not share with hearing. The music thrilled, then soothed, his tired faculties, and at length his white head nodded and Baptiste slept.

When the miser opened his eyes he knew not for the instant where he was, until his eyes caught the sound of the coins which were yet falling. He was chilled and aching with the sensation of a great weight bearing him down. He tried to rise from his cramped posture, but his stiffened limbs responded weakly and it was with difficulty that he shook off the weight and struggled to his feet. Then he reeled and would have fallen had not the close walls of the vault supported him. He was seized with a choking sensation, and in nervous haste stretched his thin hand upward toward the key which lay on the window ledge.

His trembling fingers touched it—pushed it through the bars—where it hung balancing an instant, and then fell on the outside. As the key struck the floor it rang with a clink that seemed to mock the clink of the falling coins within.

As the full significance of the miser's situation forced itself upon him, his knees gave way and he sank in a limp and motionless heap—prisoner with his wealth. His eyes were closed and his head rested sideways on his knees, dimly under the slot. Each falling coin struck him on the temple and glanced against the metal lining of the vault with a ring. Baptiste was yet conscious, but without power to move. The coins smote him with pendulum-like regularity, until each one pained like a knife-trust and then jingled merrily to rest among its fellows. At length the money's music came to him indistinctly, as if it were a great way off, and he felt the pain no longer. Baptiste was drifting—drifting in a golden ship over a golden sea. The shimmering waters rocked him gently, while the waves covered him with their glittering spray. Then Baptiste fell into a sleep—a sleep wherein the heart stops and the flickering light of life goes out.

The coins continued to fall in measured accents, chanting a weird requiem and wasting the music within that prison sepulcher.

FOUND ON MISSOURI FARM

Old "Fuses" Buried During the Civil War Recently Brought to Light.

W. D. Short, who lives near Rutledge, has recently dug up on his farm 64 old muskets which have been buried since the spring of 1863, reports the Salisbury (Md.) Press Spectator. The farm where Mr. Short lives was once owned by his father in the time of the civil war, and the story of the guns is an interesting one.

Col. Glover, with a force of union soldiers, had camped near the Short home and was preparing supper when a troop of confederate cavalry dashed upon them and captured the company. Col. Glover's soldiers were equipped with "fuse" guns, an army musket superseded throughout the army by more modern weapons long before the war closed. The confederate troopers took the guns, but finding they had no ammunition for the old style weapons left them on the farm of Mr. Short.

The possession of so formidable a display of arms at that period, when even a squirrel rifle was on the prohibited list, very much alarmed Mr. Short and his family, and that night a trench was dug, the guns piled in and covered over. There the weapons have rested until one day recently, when W. D. Short, by accident found the resting place of the old firelocks and brought them to light.

The stocks are all rotted off and the iron barrels, rods and bayonets eaten with rust, but they show plainly the style of the gun, and locks and bands are all intact. Since his find has become known Mr. Short has been besieged by relic hunters for the old guns and he has given them out to all applicants as souvenirs until all but two or three of the guns are gone.

FAMILIAR MISQUOTATIONS.

Some That Are Heard Almost Daily and the Originators of Them.

"When Greek meets Greek, then comes the tug of war," said a young man, according to an exchange.

"You are wrong in that quotation," his companion objected. "That is one of a number of famous sayings that are misquoted always. It is from Nathaniel Lee, and its right reading is 'When Greeks joined Greeks, then was the tug of war.'

"Another misquotation is: 'It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good.' This is from Thomas Tasse, a sixteenth century worthy, and it should run: 'It's an ill wind that turns none to good.'

"Out of sight, out of mind," is from Brooke, but it was: "Out of mind as soon as out of sight," as Lord Brooke wrote it.

"First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen, should run: 'First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his fellow citizens.' This famous sentence is from a resolution laid before the house of representatives in 1779 by Gen. Richard Lee."

Motors for Runaways. A London tradesman advertises thus: "Eloquence by motor is now fashionable. Loving couples who would dodge stern parents by running away to be married can be supplied here at any hour of any day with a smart motor and reliable driver, on the weekly payment system."

IT IS SERIOUS.

Some Hopkinsville People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back.

The weariness, the tired feeling. The pains and aches of kidney ills are serious—if neglected.

Dangerous urinary troubles follow.

A Hopkinsville citizen shows you how to avoid them.

J. H. Bell, Sr., retired farmer living at 1121 East 7th St., says:

"I have been so much a sufferer from kidney trouble that for a long time past I had been most anxious about it. I had a doctor in town for me even the slightest degree of relief. The principal symptoms of my troubles were of a constant dull aching in the small of my back and a distressing irregularity of the kidney's secretions. Reading of Doan's Patent Pills, and trying them highly spoke of, I went to Thomas A. Doan's drug store and got a box. I used them according to directions and noticed beneficial results from the first few doses. My health has been vastly improved, also greatly ease since Doan's Ointment, which I used foritching hemorrhoids, has proved to be a great remedy for that exasperating disease."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Kentucky Shows.

More Kentucky shows are to be held this season than ever before. There will be two at Louisville, one judged by the score card in December and one by comparison in January. New associations will have exhibitions at Ghent, Warsaw, Owensboro and Henderson, making six regular poultry shows, besides the county fairs in a number of counties.

Abscess.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have to amputate, so one day I went to J. F. Lester's store, (which is now in Denver, Colo.) and recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world."

Abscesses, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or diarrhea. They may be caused by a blow from a stone or from foreign bodies, introduced into the skin or flesh, such as splinters, thorns, etc. Sold by R. C. Hardwick.

Freak Chicken.

Mr. W. H. Williamson who lives at 1403 West McFarland owns a rooster that has three well developed legs, the chicken is over a year old and is healthy and sound in every respect—Owensboro Messenger.

Beautiful Women.

Plump cheeks, flushed with the soft glow of health and a pale complexion, make all women beautiful. Take a small dose of Herbine after each meal; it will prevent constipation and help digest what you have eaten. See Mrs. William M. Armstrong, Louisville, Ky., writes, May 31, 1904: "We have used Herbine in our family for eight years, and find it the best medicine we ever used for constipation, bilious fever and malaria. Sold by R. C. Hardwick."

TWO AND TWO.

Hopkinsville Broke Even With Paducah in Four Games.

Farrell Pitched a Double Header Sunday and Won Both Games.

Hopkinsville played four games with Paducah and won two and lost two. The game Friday was pitched by Morris for Hopkinsville and Dill for Paducah. Paducah got 9 and Hopkinsville 2 runs.

In Saturday's game both Pettifer and Bonar were in the box for Hopkinsville and Bonno pitched for Paducah. The Browns again lost by 9 to 2. The double umpire system was followed, Gilligan for Hopkinsville and Freeman for Paducah.

Sunday's double header was a sweeping victory for Hopkinsville. Both games were taken from the locals. In the first Game Brady and Brabie and Land were Paducah's battery. In the second Freeman and Land. Farrell pitched both games for Hopkinsville, with Ketter as catcher. The Browns smarting under two defeats battled like fiends and it was easy money in both games. The first was 7 to 4 and the second 6 to 1. Paducah, which had held first place for two days, again dropped to second.

It is said that one of the games, or perhaps both of them, were to play on the two forfeited games last summer. This being the case, and to conform to the figures used persistently by the Paducah papers, we make the table today concede all Paducah claims and take two games from Hopkinsville.

Hopkinsville is closing the season Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Henderson. The teams were tied Sunday with the two forfeits taken from Hopkinsville, and the best two out of three will settle the fourth place in the final percentage column.

Paducah is at Clarksville and Cairo to Vincennes. Paducah must gain two games from Cairo in some way to win the pennant. If Vincennes takes three games from Cairo and Paducah wins one or more from Clarksville, Paducah will win the pennant.

Gilligan's booze fighting finally became undurable and he was released at Paducah Saturday, and was appointed official umpire to succeed Violet for the few remaining days of the season. Gilligan is a good player when in condition to play which is often not the case.

Vincennes undoubtedly has in Goodwin one of the best pitchers in the League. He made the record of a no-hit no-run game last Friday in the second game with Clarksville, beating Willis the invincible.

Sunday's games made two ties in the club standing, Paducah and Cairo for first place and Hopkinsville and Henderson for fourth place.

Grover Land, Paducah's catcher, has signed with Pittsburgh.

Pittsburg will play Paducah at Paducah Thursday.

Hopkinsville will play the local Pembroke team at Pembroke Thursday of this week.

VOTED FOR SEWERS.

Council Will Order an Election For $50,000 Bonds.

Citizens Take Part in Discussion at Special Council Meeting.

The Council met in called session Friday night and a general discussion of the needs of a sewer system was engaged in, several citizens by invitation taking part in the discussion.

The City Engineer estimated that $30,000 would be sufficient to build about 7 miles of sewers to convey closet sewage to a series of tanks in different parts of the city. Some of the citizens who spoke thought the proposed bond issue too small and on motion of Mr. J. E. McPherson the sense of the meeting was taken on $50,000 as the amount to be voted on. This change was then made. There seemed to be no division of sentiment on the subject under discussion except on the amount to be voted on. Those who Made speeches were: Messrs. Geo. C. Long, J. C. Duffy, Edmund Harbener, Chas. M. Meacham, W. A. Wilgus, A. J. Casey, E. M. Flack and J. E. McPherson.

The council by unanimous vote decided to submit the question to a vote on Nov. 8. City Attorney Hanbary said the law had been construed so that the tax rate could be increased beyond the constitutional limit of $1.50 and that an additional 10 cents could be levied if necessary.

The city officials are firmly convinced that $30,000 will be all that is needed. Increasing the amount beyond the requirements of the proposed improvement will, of course, make the question more difficult to carry.

Dr. R. L. Woodard discussed the question of issuing further bonds to establish a city hospital, but no action was taken.

At the request of Mr. J. E. McPherson, of the school board, the city attorney was directed to prepare an ordinance providing for the erection of a $20,000 school building in the Seventh ward, on borrowed capital. It was explained that the money could be raised by issuing $1,000 notes bearing 4½ per cent. interest and exemption from city taxes, and that these notes could probably be paid annually out of the school revenues. The proposed building would be erected on a lot on Seventh street, near the western limits of the city, which the trustees bought two years ago for $1,500 payable in three years. The lot is 200 by 225 feet and contains about one acre.

The ordinance will be presented at the next meeting. It is expected that steps will be taken to have the new building ready by Sept. 1905.
